This depends on your sense of morality/ethics. For me, it would depend on the side effects and pros/cons of each method for instance, how is.

Scientists claim that 'self' can relocate to other bodies, or be made to include a third arm

When I was about 18 and a half and partway through my first year living at university, I stopped remembering my entire life before that point.

What I'm trying Someone elses body say is this "Don't contempt something prior to examining it and experimenting with it correctly" After you've done that, then you can say "I disagree". If being able to go into another person's body had any validity, it would be documented by reputable scholars. Reports of this message will be mostly ignored.
