Instead we are going to be looking deeply into each moment with full acceptance and not trying to force ourselves to be different from how we are right. Impermanence is both a process of continual loss, in which things exist and then disappear, and it is also a process of continuous rebirth or creativity, in which things that do not exist suddenly appear. One of the most satisfying feelings I know – and also one of the most growth-promoting experiences for the other person – comes from my appreciating this individual in the same way that I appreciate a sunset.

Not surprisingly, she sees a difference in how men and women cope with the loss. Everything that is done in this world is done by hope. My prayers are to hopefully things will get easier. Dalai Lama. What is your favorite quote? And then it did happen.
